THE CROWN OF WISDOM

CAROLE McCULLOCH

A CONVERSATION WITH THE AUTHOR

WHY DID YOU WRITE 'THE CROWN OF WISDOM'? WHAT WERE YOUR INSPIRATIONS?

I wrote this book for my granddaughters. I aimed to inspire and to teach them through adventures the way to wisdom and to give them a sense of their ancestral past. Mostly it is a story to entertain and engage with them on another level – a spiritual journey together guided by me and my writings. This book is the third in the trilogy I have written for them. The previous two were written when they were younger and provide further insights into the discovery of their special powers and how they could travel to literary land to save the world of fiction. The Key to Cooperation and The Ring of Destiny.

HOW HAD YOU DECIDED ON THE BEST CHARACTERS FOR THE BOOK?

Easy, the Protagonists are my three granddaughters. I then conjured up the antagonists from an imaginary world and included myself as a character whose wisdom could be passed down through my beliefs to benefit them in their adventures.

HOW DO YOU CREATE OR MODEL YOUR CHARACTERS TO FIT THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE STORY AND THE EXPECTATIONS OF THE READERS?

I also chose those characters who would fit the theme and who pose intriguing challenges to the protagonists. My ideas are based on other literary characters such as those in the worlds of Harry Potter, Katniss Everdeen, Frodo Baggins and others who feature in the books and movies loved by my granddaughters.

WHAT DREW YOU TO THE SUBJECT MATTER OF THE BOOK?

My writing style had developed over the years as a way of using well known books and movies to place my grandchildren in scenes of discovery that would amuse and enlighten.
